INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE OF RESEARCHERS AND FARMERS

"Rethinking the regulation of agricultural markets for the agroecological transition in Europe"

Foreword

"This conference is a very important event for the European peasant movement. For the first time, farmers from all over Europe will reflect with researchers on the public policies necessary to ensure fair prices and decent incomes for those who produce food. The challenges are immense: the climate crisis, the rise in social inequalities, the erosion of biodiversity, food insecurity, geopolitical tensions, the disproportionate power of multinational companies, the aging of the agricultural population, the explosion of diseases linked to unhealthy diets, etc. It is urgent to think about innovative and bold political proposals, outside the box. By bringing together farmers, academics, civil society actors, political decision-makers, all on an equal footing, we give ourselves the means to participate in social change towards social and environmental justice."

– Morgan Ody, Farmer, ECVF Coordination Committee and General Coordinator of LVC

Objectives and approach

What lessons can be drawn from the successes and failures of past policies to regulate agricultural markets, in Europe and elsewhere in the world, so as to rebuild the Common Agricultural Policy (CAP) in view of food sovereignty¹ and agroecological transition²?

Given the state and challenges of today's agriculture, in the European Union and elsewhere in the world, how can the CAP expand market regulation, including price support for farmers?

This International Conference of Researchers and Farmers aims to enable the exchange and the construction of new knowledges on this topic during the conference, and the writing of policy documents after the conference, so as to participate in the policy discussions regarding the CAP for 2027-2034. These discussions are due to start in spring 2025.

This conference brings together academics and peasants, small-, and medium-sized farmers from several European countries and beyond, as well some other players working on agricultural policies. More than 100 participants submitted contributions relating to the conference, which will be presented and discussed in plenaries and workshop sessions. Opening this space will facilitate knowledge exchange and knowledge building between farmers and academics - who each make up around 50% of the attendees – along with other invited actors.

¹ As defined in the preamble of the United Nations Declaration on the Rights of Peasants and Other People Working in Rural Areas, UN. Human Rights Council (39th sess. : 2018 : Geneva)

² Agroecology is referred to as per the elements of FAO High Level Panel of Experts on Food Security and Nutrition.

Contributions to the conference

Written contributions

Around 100 written contributions were submitted by farmers and academics before the conference, on a wide range of topics. Attendees to the conference will be sent a link to access these contributions before they are available to the public. Public access to the contributions will be granted at a later date and shared at <https://linktr.ee/marketregconf2025> and via the different channels of the organisers.

Artistic contributions

The conference also welcomed a number of artistic contributions, which are summarised below, with links to access them where available. These will also be shared at <https://linktr.ee/marketregconf2025>.

1. *La Via Campesina*³. Photo exhibition - Foyer of building S, first and second floor
2. From Varied Fields to One Focus: The Struggles of a Catalan Family Farm's Journey, by Eduard Nuarlart. Photo exhibition – Somville
3. Echos de paysan.nes, by Juliette Perrinet⁴. Painting exhibition and immersive sound experience - La Turbean and Somville
4. Press drawings inspired by market regulation, by Samson. Press drawing photos - Somville
5. The quickening, by Deirdre O'Mahony⁵. Video – shown in session 4
6. The land we inherit, by Maximilian Isendahl⁶. Video excerpts – shown in session 4
7. Pastoralists in resistance, by Agata Hummel⁷. Video excerpts – shown in session 1
8. Quotas Laitiers : La régulation, à quoi bon ?, by Anouk Bassou & Eugénie Moret. Video excerpts – shown in session 1

Logistical information

The conference will take place at the Campus du Solbosch, with the main activities in building S, (Avenue Jeanne 44, 1050 Ixelles). Social moments after the conference and an exhibition will be hosted at La Turbean (building F, Av. Paul Héger 22). Below you can find all of the room details for the conference activities.

Interpreting

Interpreting will be provided in EN, FR and ES at different moments of the event. In order to facilitate this, please collect an interpreting device at registration. ECVC staff will be around to support interpretation. Please remember to give this back at the end of the day so it can be charged.

Registration to parallel workshops

Half of the day will be dedicated to parallel workshops, in which farmers, academics and other actors will present their contributions to the conference. This is an opportunity to co-construct and exchange knowledge. In order to support the facilitators, you will be asked to register for the parallel workshops in advance, by signing up on site on the printed spreadsheet near the registration desk on Monday 3 March.

Wifi

Each participant should have received a user name and password via email. The email subject is "Guestroam: Identifiants". You can login to the Guestroam network with the given username (nom d'utilisateur) and password (mot de passe).

Catering

Catering for the event will be provided by La Turbean, a sustainable and activist canteen at the heart of the Université libre de Bruxelles. It aims to make sustainable food more accessible to students, while supporting fair and environmentally-friendly food chains, set up by former ULB agronomy students and chefs.
